Dear Burton:

Lloyd Millegan and I have made a round-up to see how much R & A material has actually been of use here, and we were surprised at the volume of it. It is found in half a dozen publications, sometimes with credit, sometimes without, but it has been well-nigh indispensable in some jobs and useful in all. Practically all of the material that I have brought out has been utilized. The collection that Lloyd got together for me has been a boon to six or eight agencies. Dr. Tesser's material has been extremely useful. Lloyd is making a list of what has been of use that I will send to you.

Ed Mill has done an excellent job on his "Government of the New Philippines." It is being eagerly sought for by numerous staff agencies concerned with the reoccupation. Ed's other current activities are producing rich dividends from our standpoint. I am sorry that direct reciprocation is impossible -- you know what the situation is. All I can say is that if there is any satisfaction in making a definite although only partially acknowledged contribution to the war effort in this Theater you are entitled to it.

Things are moving along here, as you know. One feels that the goal is in sight, although still some distance off. Lloyd is indispensable. He is now a staff-senior and I hope that he will be wearing shoulder bars in due time.

Best regards to your wife & son - also my friends in the office.

Truly,

Dear General Donovan:

It was recently found necessary to make a motion picture record of the tests in connection with an important secret Army Air Force project.

As security and speed were essential, and as the Office of Strategic Services was working closely with us on a similar project, this office requested your Field Photographic Branch to produce these films.

The pictures are now completed and have proven highly satisfactory. They were made with a minimum of effort and expense and with that fine spirit of cooperation that has exemplified the association of the Office of Strategic Services with the Army Air Forces.

I wish to express my deep appreciation for the courteous and efficient assistance extended by your splendid organization.

The results obtained in the reports from the ~~Sussex~~ operation have been very helpful. Not only was the information useful, but compared with the great volume of CX reports received the level of accuracy has been gratifyingly high. The manner in which the operation has been carried out reflects the obviously excellent training which the intelligence teams had been given.

I am aware that in addition to the Sussex teams there are other OSS SI teams attached to First US Army, but I have not yet received sufficient reports on their work to be able to judge their performance.

Dear General Donovan:

A small group of us preceded the U. S. Chiefs of Staff to the U. K. to prepare for the recently completed conference of the Combined Chiefs of Staff.

While in London several of us took the opportunity offered by your Colonel Joe Haskell to visit his Headquarters. We visited their operations rooms and were thoroughly read into the past, current and projected activities of that branch of your establishment with respect to the invasion of France.

While I had a general knowledge of OSS activities both in my Air Staff duties and as a member of the Joint and Combined Chiefs of Staff organizations, I had not fully appreciated the great contribution your organization is making in the European fight.

In Assam and Burma in March - 1944, I was again surprised and pleased to learn in detail of your very great assistance to the operation of our air units which are supporting General Stilwell and particularly in the recovery of airmen who bail out over the "Hump".

In both instances I have acquainted General Arnold with my greater appreciation of the value of OSS and want to take this opportunity to do likewise to you.

SUBJECT: Recommendation for presentation of a United States award to source HOUSTON.

TO : Commanding Officer,
2677th Regiment, A.P.H. ..

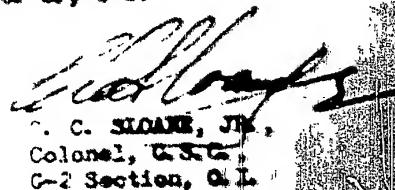

Source HOUSTON, formerly known as HQ a sub-source of the MADRID chain, has been furnishing information on Southern FRANCE for a period of over twelve months. In the last three months alone this source has turned in the remarkable total of nearly 400 reports from a total of some 40 identified agents and has provided information of operational importance on almost every type of enemy activity and installation.

This source has particularly distinguished itself in the matter of coast defenses and has provided excellent ground reports on German fortifications, especially between PORT VENDRES and SETE and in the environs of TOULON. Detailed mechanical drawings of a great many batteries and Regelbau, which were forwarded with their legend in German, were a particularly noteworthy contribution to our knowledge of enemy defense constructions.

This source has furthermore furnished a quantity of accurate information on German Order of Battle and reports on enemy TCOs (notably a complete breakdown of the TCO Alpenrose, which brought 2 S.S. Panzer Division DAS REICH from BORDEAUX to the TOULOUSE area) have been most helpful.

Qualitatively as well as quantitatively, Source HOUSTON has proven one of the best of the purely American contributions to Allied intelligence and the principal organizer of this chain can be said to have done, in an extremely important area and at an extremely important time, an outstanding job.

SUBJECT: Captain JOHN R. GROZE

THROUGH: AC of S, C-S, Fifth Army.

TO: Chief of OSS Operations, ANZAC

1. The intelligence services of CAPTAIN JOHN R. GROZE, First Special Service Force, FIFTH ARMY, have been of a commendatory character as far as the conduct of operations by the ANZAC Force while on the Beachhead.
2. Of the eight agents sent through the lines held by the ANZAC Force on the right flank of the ANZAC Beachhead, six returned successfully with valuable information concerning enemy defenses and intentions on 18 May 1944.
3. When it is considered these agents were for the most part untrained or in other cases only briefly trained, the completeness of their reports, the excellent supervisory control by Captain GROZE, his adherence to all missions and later detailed interrogation of agents resulted in an over-all picture of enemy movements, fortifications, locations, supply locations, and civilian affairs in enemy-occupied terrain.

Dear Stan:

I am delayed in writing to you to express our appreciation for the very useful information and assistance obtained from Professor Calosi in the course of several conferences with him by different groups within OSRD. We particularly appreciate the courtesy of OSS in bringing him to Washington for these conferences and I can assure you that the information which he gave to our people fully justified the effort involved both on his part and on the part of his organization in bringing him here.

His extensive scientific and practical experience in the field of torpedo exploders has been of special value to our people working in that field. We have also been pleased with his cordiality and very apparent desire to give whatever information he had which might aid us in finding better solutions to our problems.

1. I wish to commend and compliment you for the fine work and superior manner in which you have conducted CGS duties under the direction of A. C. of S., G-2, Fifth Army, during the five months May 1-October 1, 1943.

2. Your liaison with which Fifth Army was responsible for counter-intelligence in Morocco, the CGS, under your direction, gave a valuable contribution in connection with combat and counter intelligence activities. During combat in Italy, you showed initiative, energy, and resourcefulness in organizing informer service and helping the military effort in any way possible, including the delivery of supplies when needed for such arose.

3. Regret very much losing your services at this time and wish you every good luck in the future.

Dear General Donovan:

I understand that because of budgetary restrictions on civilian personnel there is a possibility that the work of your Presentation Division may be curtailed in the near future.

As you know, the Army has made extensive use of this Division and it has been of great value to us to have such an organization to which we could turn for prompt and intelligent service. The secret film "The United States Army" made for General Marshall's use was remade into a restricted version for general Army use. It has proved to be one of the most widely used of Army instructional films; the Officer Candidate School uses it three times during each course. Other films have been made for G-3 and for the Commanding General, Army Air Forces. We also feel that the films on new weapons produced for the Joint Chiefs of Staff are of great value.

In addition to films, the Army has also received from this Division excellent graphic and editorial services. It prepared the charts and illustrations for the biennial Report of the Chief of Staff and is at present preparing for this office a study of Army communications. A large volume of the work of this type has also been done for other branches of the Army.

The work which the Presentation Division of the Office of Strategic Services has done for the Army has been of a very high technical excellence. Its personnel have been most cooperative and have spared neither time nor energy in their effort to render services. There is no other place in either the War Department or in the other government services where work of this type is performed quickly, secretly, and with such a high degree of technical excellence. I hope that there will be no curtailment which will prevent the continuation of the work which the Presentation Division has been doing for the War Department and the Army.

Dear Colonel Donovan:

Thank you for your letter of January 14, and the accompanying report from the committee which has been investigating the availability of motion pictures on strategic areas of the world.

I feel, on the basis of the results obtained to date, that the committee's recommendation for the continuance of this project is deserving of serious consideration. Naturally, we are keenly interested in the possibilities of obtaining further material of value from sources such as those which have already been listed, and I am therefore taking the opportunity of circulating the committee's report to various interested offices within the Department for study. The recent speedy collection and showing of films on the Pacific islands which your staff handled for us is a good example of what advantages may result from a comprehensive survey and cataloguing of these sources.

There is, of course, considerable work still to be done in setting up any permanent means for handling or evaluating the vast mass of material involved. In the working out of some ultimate arrangement mutually satisfactory to all parties concerned we shall be glad to be of all possible assistance, and to that end we should appreciate being informed of any further steps which your agency may contemplate after review of the committee's report.

I understand that in all probability you are going to close down your Italian S.I. section shortly, and bring back most, if not all, of your S.I. people from Italy.

That being so, I should like on this occasion to put a special tribute to Brennan by putting on record my sincere appreciation of the friendly and co-operative spirit which he has gone out of his way to display.

Moore has repeatedly told me that Brennan never loses an opportunity to be helpful. As a result, they have been able to build up an association which has, I think, been useful to both our organizations and proved a de facto working model of Anglo-American collaboration between individuals.

I have been informed that Dr. Enjo Holborn has terminated his connection with the Office of Strategic Services in order to return to his duties at Yale University. I am taking this opportunity to express my appreciation for the many services rendered to me and to my office by Dr. Holborn as a member of your staff.

For more than a year he served as a member of the Committee on Civil Affairs Studies. You are well aware of the importance of the work that has been done in the preparation of Civil Affairs guides.

Dr. Holborn was, during the entire period that he served with the committee, one of its most enthusiastic and industrious members. As the result of his excellent opinions and the advice that he rendered as a member of the committee, the guides that have been prepared have proved to be documents which are a very real value in the conduct of the work of military government. In addition, I feel fortunate to have had the services of Dr. Holborn as a personal adviser in which capacity he has done much to assist me with my problems.

It is with extreme regret that we now see Dr. Holborn leave.

Whilst you are here, I would very much like to take this opportunity of expressing my thanks for the valuable work that has been done by OSS for G-2.

The work that was done in the South of France and Northern Italy, quite apart from the brilliant work in Switzerland, has been quite remarkably good.

During my long spell in G-2 in the Mediterranean it has been most gratifying to see the value and reliability of the large amount of information from OSS sources, grow from day to day. I do hope that you will allow me to express my admiration and gratitude for all that has been done by your organisation. I wish to express to you my deep appreciation for the outstanding work of the Chinese in the U.S.-S.E.A. Operation.

It was my good fortune to have participated in the discussion and I am, therefore, familiar with the various points and functions placed on the agenda. I believe that it would be to the highly commendable manner with which the meeting was carried out by all concerned.

The work of Allen W. DULLIT was particularly important. His establishment of the original contacts in SWITZERLAND, arrangement of subsequent conferences and discussions were done with rare skill and sound judgment. Great credit is due him for the roughness and efficiency with which he handled the many complicated frontier passage, security, and the many movements of personnel equipment from one place to another in SWITZERLAND. Through the entire period, he and his entire staff worked long hours, often in the most trying conditions. He was always most cooperative to General AIRY, Commander-in-Chief, British Headquarters.

Colonel Edward J. F. GRIFFIN and the 2677th Regiment contributed much to the success of the SUNSHINE-CROSSWORD Operation. The heavy additional signal traffic was handled efficiently, and movement and accommodation were well prepared and effectively executed, and complete security was maintained throughout the operation.

In the foregoing, I have attempted to give credit to members of your organization with whom I had direct contact, and in my opinion, played outstanding parts in the SUNSHINE-CROSSWORD Operation. The greatest credit, however, belongs to you and the Central Strategic Services for having in existence the personnel, the personnel and the means required to take full advantage of the opportunity to carry the SUNSHINE-CROSSWORD Operation to a successful conclusion. Aside from the important intelligence and operational roles played by OSS in this war, your organization has also played a vital part in bringing about the unconditional surrender of the German Armies in Northern ITALY and Southern AUSTRIA, which did much to hasten the complete collapse of the entire German military and political Government. By this action on the part of OSS, the war would have been brought to a successful conclusion much earlier than it could otherwise have been possible, with the consequent saving of many lives and much treasure.

1. It has come to my attention that our reaction to their issue of the so called "first report".

2. Under existing combat conditions, my wire sources have been found that this manner of intelligence work is now being done by other methods. A recent example is the flight of two agents from Berlin via Stuttgart and who definitely confirmed that they had seen a reported motorized army being concentrated in that area. They also brought back various bits of very timely and valuable information. The agent was extremely interested in the report.

3. Our desire is to effect the dropping of two agents in the area south of the Danube, some of them to tour the salient, others to go to front lines along prescribed routes. By establishing contacts with such agents the wealth of intelligence to be gained will be great.

Dear General

When Captain Conway, Associate Director of the War Shipping Administration, was in Paris recently, he gave us a cabinet of 10" X 12" photographs of European ports. One of the Photographic Unit located in the Scott Building allowed us to borrow, on April 6, a complete set of these of the port of Antwerp.

These photographs, in the opinion of Captain Conway, myself, rank among the best and clearest port photographs. They would be most valuable to this Agency in making operational studies and post-war plans.

We would appreciate your placing this Agency on the distribution list for one complete set of photographs on any port in Europe.

EXCERPTS FROM A REPORT BY CAPTAIN
WILLIAMS OF HIS RECENT TOUR ** PAR. I,

To: McCaig.

General Sultan was away but I met General Cannon, Colonel Bright, Colonel Stillwell, Colonel Peers (just promoted), and many other officers.

This front is probably the best served by clandestine intelligence and their liaison with 14th Army on that level is efficient, speedy and co-operative.

There are, however, two points of great importance affecting policy:-

i.e. the question of raising and arming of guerrilla forces. This N.C.A.C. have done throughout the campaign on the following principle. A group under American officers is sent behind the Japanese lines and when that group is fully established, arms, equipment and etc are dropped and distributed under command to the forces that group raises. When the battle moves over them, the arms are collected and to illustrate the effectiveness of the O.S.S. system Colonel Peers now has in his armouries a surplus of 2,000 more weapons than he originally issued.

SECRET

The effect of this group system can best be seen by comparing it to a slowly moving snowball, the mass, with its rear end melting away as it rolls along, charged to their own parts of the country and village.

Their strength is considerable and round the town of LASHIO there are no less than 7 battalions of troops, strong, commanded by Americans deep in the enemy rear.

Their bag of Japanese picked up dead in the last 6 months is now approaching 4,000 and it is the view of my mind above system that the volume of intelligence available to N.C.A.C. and on the borders of their territory, to date, is so great.

I have discussed the above with B.G.S.(K) and C.G.S. A.G.Z. A.L.F.S.E.A. and strongly urged that covering approval be given to N.C.A.C. to continue the system, for there is at present an order out that no arming may take place without prior approval, and in view of the Karen decision to withdraw 136 (referred to in paragraph 6(3) above) and the great lack of authority at N.C.A.C. area, it is not surprising that those in authority at N.C.A.C. feel that they also should be fully trusted.

D.G.S.(I) and C.G.S. were fully in agreement, and pointed out that O.S.S. had submitted no plan, and this have asked O.S.S. to do. When they had, the agreement of C.A.S.(E) would be sought.

I was impressed with the evident sense of responsibility present in the minds of those concerned at N.C.A.C., and I am convinced that the issuing of arms by the Americans under their system can do nothing but help military purposes, and being carefully controlled do nothing proportionate to harm post-military problems.

Nothing in the above affects the A.F.O. but is concerned with the Kachins, Shans and presumably in time, the Burmese.

A point
the force 136
ordination

is that when the "snowball" reaches resistance movement very careful co-ordinated.

2. O.S.S.

up.

sol. tank propaganda against

the Japanese, and the point was put forward that their operations have to be cleared with the P.W. Division. This sometimes means that "hot" intelligence which could be worked up into effective black propaganda is buried by the time approval is given. The remedy it is suggested lies in the laying down of lines within which subordinate commands can work and approval to be given for action to be taken on the spot, subsequently reporting what has been done in order to keep senior H.Q.'s in the picture.

8. ADV. ALFSEA (second visit).

In addition to discussing the points above a meeting was held which was attended by all G.1 and G.2 P Div. officers with the exception of Lieut. Colonel Willis, who for some reason had not arrived. The following decisions were reached:-

1. Code Names.

'P' Division SACSEA would continue to issue blocks of code names as received from I.S.S.D. on behalf of I.S.L.D., O.S.S. and Force 136, and keep G.1 P Div. A.L.F.S.E.A. informed of what they represent. 'P' Force code names would be issued by Adv. A.L.F.S.E.A. and 'P' Div S.A.C.S.E.A. to kept informed.

2. Money.

Any money required by Adv. A.L.F.S.E.A. for 'P' Force operations would be provided through 'P' Div. SACSEA.

3. Boundaries.

The 15th Corps boundary to the eastward was defined as running along the ridge of the Eastern Arakan Iomas.

9. General Remarks.

The expressed opinion of commanders and senior staff officers of the various commands regarding clandestine intelligence gave me the type of shock one would receive in a market town if one met a group of fairly contented farrago. There is no doubt there has been a marked improvement and the system is well into its stride, and should produce progressive results. There is a necessity for all organizations to get quicker into action, commanders frequently want an operation put in at very short notice and clandestine services should plan to that end.

This is being taken up.

Another need is for more frequent liaison visits, misunderstandings and doubts disappear with personal contact and weak spots show up more quickly.

Seeing the O.S.S. unit in the field with its equivalent combination of all the British clandestine and quasi-military organisations left me in no sort of doubt as to how these services can best be organised to serve commanders in the field. It would be unsound to recommend a changed organisation now for we have, by empiric methods, arrived at a compromise which works.

10. The agreement of A.I.T.S.E.A. was obtained to our P/2440 of 31st January 1945, implementing the conclusions reached at the Barrack-pore conference.

I would like to express to you our deep appreciation for the aid which the Office of Strategic Services has rendered to the United States Forces in Europe during this theater of war. This information has been made to me by my Staff Officers, who have maintained valuable contacts with your service personnel.

It would be unfortunate if the services of your organization in the Office of Strategic Services, were utilized in support of the Strategic Air Forces. However, I would appreciate your giving us of timely assistance given to many of your agents in the periodic condition of the various areas under your control of treasonous value. The Twentieth Air Force is continuing its operations largely on the basis of experience. All information available has been carefully analyzed and we have incorporated these analyses into operating data. Dear Colonel Lyle:

I am enclosing a copy of the book "The War of Decipher and the Intercept" which I have just received. It is my desire that you forward this book to Headquarters in formal presentation. Any additional material which you may be able to forward to us would be appreciated.

I suggest that in the future all information be sent directly to this headquarters in order that this information may be applied as early as possible. I will keep General Arnold informed of all information obtained from the Office of Strategic Services.

Sincerely,

The visit here of your very able representative in Switzerland reminds me of the fact that when I was in London recently I had the opportunity of going into the history and product of the "Wood" traffic. This is certainly one of the greatest secret intelligence achievements of this war. I mention this exceptional case but I must also express my most sincere admiration for the way your whole S.I. organization has been developed in what is, compared to the development of the various established secret intelligence organizations elsewhere, a phenomenally short space of time. I say nothing at this moment about what I have seen of the operations of your other departments, which are no less outstanding, but I cannot help recording my delight that your "I" side — which, after all, is the most delicate operation in foreign fields — has been so amazingly successful. All those with any real experience who know something about its operations and achievements are astonished at the progress which has been made.

You have cause for pride in the accomplishment, and those concerned deserve every congratulation, but I look beyond the satisfaction which has been given me to play some role of minor assistance in its beginnings, to a profound hope and faith that the organization which you have so effectively created and developed will continue into the days of peace.

After this war you and I will probably be following our normal peacetime preoccupations. You well know my views about the importance of the United States Government having its own worldwide secret intelligence organization. It may be that other Governments, possibly with evil intentions, would not welcome the continuation of an U.S.G. secret intelligence organization, but I, personally, have always had the deepest conviction that if such an organization as yours had existed in the years following the last war this war might have been averted. There is no need to go into the details of what I consider to be absolutely irrefutable arguments in support of this contention, because they are known to you and I think that you completely agree with me.

I write you this letter not only to express my admiration for the pages of history which you have already made but also to say once again that I hope and trust that your achievements of the past are to be but the sound foundation for the future S.I. organization of U.S.G.

Dear General Donovan:

I am attaching for your information, a copy of a letter to this headquarters from the Chief Signal Officer expressing his appreciation for the opportunity to examine certain captured equipment made available by the efforts of your organization. This is another of many instances wherein the OSS has been so helpful to the Army.

The equipment in question was a late model of a German Radiosonde which was recovered by your agents who were assigned to the Simmons Mission.

1. Reference is made to your letter, 7 August 1944, subject: "Captured Equipment for Examination", and to the Signal Corps Laboratory report on this equipment, which was forwarded with our letter on 23 September 1944, file 413.44 Radiosondes, subject: "Report on German Radiosonde Type RS-3".

2. It is desired to express the appreciation of the Chief Signal Officer for the opportunity to examine this late model of a German Radiosonde, which was received in such excellent condition. Models heretofore received for test have been in very poor condition. With this model, the first opportunity has been provided for inspection of the modified pressure unit. The information gained through inspection of late models of foreign equipment in good condition is of invaluable assistance to the Signal Corps research and development program.

HEADQUARTERS, FIRST UNITED STATES ARMY, PARIS

To: Commanding General, Twelfth Army Group

1. As pointed out in the letter, the activities of resistance groups were accomplished on a material scale by the Twelfth Army Group. Much of this assistance was given to resistance units of strategic nature drawn in by liberating forces which had been developed during the course of the war. It is to be noted that other forces benefited from the activities of the A.G. D. No. 10, attached to the headquarters of the Twelfth Army Group. This headquarters informed of the activities of the A.G. D. It is to be noted that numerous resistance units, to obtain a most rapid advance, used enemy locations and movements to establish liaison parties. The use of individual resistance groups rather than organized units, in the area covered by this army.

2. The activities of the FFI in Paris were not directed by his/her headquarters but by members of the group who entered Paris by elements of the group. After its liberation the assistance given to the resistance groups permitted the freedom of large numbers of troops that otherwise would have been used in Paris.

3. As a result of these operations it is felt that activities of resistance groups should be directed and coordinated on a higher level than army headquarters. Formation of a small liaison group to keep army headquarters advised of plans is essential. In addition personnel to operate at headquarters and possibly division headquarters should be provided. This is of considerable value in handling liaison and liaison work covered during the advance of the Army. The A.G. D. No. 10, mentioned as constituted was able to coordinate liaison work and did perform them in a timely manner.

Very truly yours,

My dear Hornaday,

I should like to express our thanks to you for the help which you gave to a large number of Agents returning to our PARIS. I have seen many Agents and various Officers of your organization and the way in which you and your Detachments treated them was a way to make them comfortable and at home in their new country.

The advance in FRANCE was so rapid that we did not have time to set up a Headquarters in PARIS, and if it had not been for your help in getting I am sure that PARIS would have been filled with a crowd of Agents wanting help and instructions and there would have been nobody there to aid them.

I should also like to thank you for the help and kindness you showed to Major Hamilton when he arrived in PARIS and before he could set up his Office.

Dear General [redacted],

You will find attached a copy of the report of the OFS (SI) contribution to the success of DRAGON. I fully concur with Colonel [redacted].

The success of the intelligence effort for DRAGON has resulted in the development of a system to allocate tasks. The type of information now received is due to the fact that the customer (G-2) is receiving from the procurer (CCS-SI) exact orders.

The city team in Bucharest has been hard at work and it is hoped that the other city teams will do as well. All the teams have been briefed on what to do. The [redacted] office has seen to it that a questionnaire dealing with essential information is also in their hands. This questionnaire will be amended from time to time before and after the mission.

Memorandum for D/A. C. of S., O-2.

Subject : O.S.S. Contribution to Intelligence Collated for Operation DRAGOON.

1. The intelligence provided for Operation 'DRAGOON' was probably the fullest and most detailed of any provided by O-2, AFHQ in a series of combined operations commencing with 'TOPCH'. The GOC, 7 U.S. Army himself paid a personal tribute to its 'extraordinary accuracy'.
2. The material collated by O-2, AFHQ came from a variety of sources but the very considerable contribution of O.S.S. merits special emphasis, not only on account of its intrinsic worth but because the results obtained provide a signal example of what can be done by an agency of this kind when it consents to work in closest cooperation with the Operational Headquarters which it is serving.
3. A rough estimate of the proportion of accepted ground intelligence supplied by the three Allied agencies shows that 50% was provided by O.S.S., 30% by the S.H. and 20% by I.S.L.D.

4. The French Desk at Algiers maintained daily contact with the I.T. Section at AFHQ. All the members of it were indefatigable in their efforts to secure the information requested. Nothing was declared to be impossible.

A full and accurate picture of the static situation in Southern France was gradually built up and when the events of July and early August threatened to confuse the whole issue by setting the whole enemy lay-out in motion, a phenomenally accurate check on troop movements was maintained with the result that we were not only able to keep 7 Army in possession of an up-to-date picture but also to provide SHAEF with information in advance of any other source.

5. I have had not inconsiderable experience of intelligence planning and am very fully aware of the patience and meticulousness required of both planners and intelligence assessors. I consider that the results achieved by O.S.S. in respect of Southern FRANCE before DRAGOON are outstanding that they should be brought to the attention of concerned authorities, together with the names of our principal contributors.

1. It is desired to point out and emphasize the extremely valuable work which has been and is still being done for this command by the OSS Detachments, officially known as Co A, 2577th Regiment, OSS "Prairie", at this Headquarters as the "Strategic Services Section".

2. During the planning phase of the Operation DRAGOON (AUGUST 1944), personnel of this unit operated under control of AFHQ, but subsequently came under command of this section in the employment of intelligence assets in the theater. They were attached to Headquarters Seventh Army. [P] Letter, p. 1, AFHQ, 20 Aug. 1944.

3. Since the beginning of the operation, this department under its supervision has served as the sole agency for the administration and development, coordination and control of all clandestine intelligence activities of agents in the Seventh Army Area. By thus concentrating the administration and control of all such activities in the hands of a single agency composed of highly competent, trained, and experienced personnel, and commanded by an officer capable of maintaining effective control of such agents, the department has enjoyed the benefits of a very prolific flow of reliable intelligence agent intelligence and has at the same time, to a significant degree, solved the difficult problem of recruiting and screening of agents operating in civilian areas.

4. With the understanding from the jurisdictional point of view, that changes in the structure or organization of the subordinate units proposed or considered, in so far as they affect the fact the entire system of command and control of the subordinate agency is substantially less important than every possible efficient functioning of the organization or structure of the command of the unit.

Dear General Donovan:

Your thoughtfulness in forwarding for my information a copy of the letter of commendation which you received from General Davidson of the Tenth Air Force with reference to the outstanding accomplishments of Detachment 101, O.S.S. is appreciated. The contribution of this detachment to the efforts of the Tenth Air Force in furnishing target information, damage assessment and, particularly, the assistance and rescue of pilots and air crews adds further assurance that our military successes are to a great extent the result of our traditional American teamwork.

General Davidson's statement that O.S.S. personnel effected the rescue and return of four fighter pilots and participated in the rescue of or assistance to 181 air crew members of troop carrier units and Air Transport Command was most satisfying. These achievements which materially contribute to the maintenance of the high morale of our air crews are all the more remarkable in view of the difficulties of rescue in the dense jungle and rugged, mountainous terrain of Burma.

I wish to take this opportunity to add my own commendation to that of General Davidson for the exceptionally fine work of Detachment 101, O.S.S.

Sincerely yours

SUBJECT: Provision of Intelligence for Operation DRAGOON
TO: Commanding Officer, 2677 Regiment, OSS

1. During both the planning phase and the actual operation, up to the time that OSS(SI) agents were overrun, intelligence flowing through the office of the Assistant Chief of Staff, G-2, A. F. H. Q., was extremely accurate and contributed in no small way to the success of the operation, particularly from an intelligence point of view.

2. Much credit should go to Mr. Henry Hyde and Mr. Ted Ryan for the actual preparation of the above mentioned intelligence. Their close liaison and cooperation with the R. A. F. Q. Country Sections concerned with Southern France enabled them to receive the guidance as to what specific information was required and to better direct the agents under their control in the actual procurement of the information.

3. Although unknown to the undersigned, the agents who worked in the field deserve their share of praise, particularly for their high standard of reporting. Many of the diagrams and charts of defences, dumps and other important enemy installations were extremely helpful, especially since through them confirmation of and additions to information gathered from air photos were made. Furthermore, installations were uncovered which due to good camouflage had not been picked up on air photos.

Dear General Donovan:

General Eaker has recently sent me a report of the rescue of American airmen from the Balkans. The release of these crews has given a tremendous boost to the morale of AAF personnel in the Mediterranean.

General Eaker, in his report, emphasizes the important role played by Office of Strategic Services personnel in the operations. The success of the rescue missions has been directly dependent upon excellent OSS cooperation.

Please accept my sincere thanks for the assistance your organization has rendered to the Army Air Forces. I am especially grateful for the part played by Company B of the 2766th Regiment.

During the last three months, General Eaker informs me, 1,888 American airmen have been rescued from the Balkans. This is an achievement in which the OSS should have much justifiable pride.

Sincerely yours,

Dear General:

The rescue of American airmen from the Balkans was a very difficult task. Approximately one thousand American airmen were evacuated from Romania. The majority of these men were American flyers. The cost of rescuing them was high. An additional combat crew was required for each plane. The value of the lives of the men involved was immeasurable. In a letter to request co-operation dated 10 August 1943, activities concerning the rescue of American airmen from the Balkans is described for your information.

A large number of American airmen were shot down by Fifteenth Air Force. As a parachuted safely to the ground, the craft disengaged while operating over the Balkans. The situation in the Balkans was such that many airmen sought refuge in areas held by the friendly forces of the Tito-Mihailovich in Yugoslavia. These friendly forces were instrumental in effecting an early return of American airmen to their organizations, but they were unable to provide assistance from outside Yugoslavia.

Certain Allied organizations which perform certain functions in the Balkans are in a position to do much in return. American air crews, the aid of these organizations has been freely contributed to the successful rescue of American airmen. These organizations and their functions are as follows:

Company B, 2766 Regt (Prov). - This is a Yugoslav company which was formerly known as Special liaison organization. It has officers stationed with elements of the Tito-Mihailovich forces in Yugoslavia. This company performs functions of liaison between our forces, bringing them places from which they can be resupplied and informed of the situation. This organization may be situated in certain parts of Yugoslavia and may be entirely American maintained.

a signal corps officer maintaining secretarial, telephone and communications liaison personnel. The fifteenth air force arrived, July, 1944, and performed successfully its duties in aircraft rescue work.

Air Force Office - Balkans - This office was established in November 1944, to assist in the rescue of American airmen who were captured by the Germans and were to be rescued by the Fifteenth Air Force. It has been assisted in the removal of prisoners and other special requests by military attaches and embassies.

Air Force 33d - Force 33d - This organization operates in Yugoslavia. It is the primary organization which works directly with the Yugoslav Air Force.
It is American liaison personnel, primarily from the (Prov) and the Fifteenth Air Force, which is responsible for supplies and equipment, and other special missions. This office has been responsible for maintaining a definite wireless service with which maintains a definite wireless service in emergency, signal service with all agencies.
The office has been active in assisting the Fifteenth Air Force crews.

The Fifteenth Air Force has been instrumental in the rescue of American airmen from the Balkans and in the necessary transportation out of Yugoslavia. The planes of the Fifteenth Air Force and troop carriers loaned to it by the First Troop Carrier Command have been used in the transportation of personnel. Planes of the Air Force have been used to escort the aircraft in the transportation of airmen.

The rescue of airmen from the Balkans, up to mid-July 1944, was accomplished by special arrangements in which when organizations operating in the Balkans provided information that airmen had been located and that it was possible to perform a rescue operation.

On the 14th of July, 1944, action was initiated to form an Air Crew Recovery Unit. The duties of this unit were to assist in the rescue of airmen stricken within the United States. It was determined that this could be accomplished in closest cooperation with the First Air Force Command, the Air Force, and other organizations operating in the Balkans States. The First Air Force, both military and non-military,
It works in close cooperation with the units which are authorized to operate in the Balkans.

The Air Crew Rescue Unit established at quartier's aturi, Italy. It was attached to the Fifteenth Air Force. Its personnel included the following:

Headquarters

One Commanding Officer
One Officer
One Sergeant

Air Crews

Three Pilots
Three Crew Chiefs
Two Radio Operators

Communication

One Radio Room

Medical Teams

Two Field Teams, each

Flight Teams

One Lead Flight

One All Weather Flight

One Medical Flight

If the above personnel are不够, the unit was furnished by Headquarters, Fifteenth Air Force personnel by Co. 1, 2766th Regt (Prov), and by Fifteenth Air Force.

The unit was furnished two C-46 aircraft. It was authorized to request additional aircraft from the Fifteenth Air Force and first drop aircraft if the need for a large volume of air transport develops.

The Air Crew Rescue Unit impact is illustrated by a typical rescue:

Information passes from special or other agents within the Balkans to the Balkan and Italy, concerning movements of U.S. Co. 1, 2766th Regt (Prov). This information is passed to the Air Crew Rescue Unit and the Fifteenth Air Force. The airmen have been found and may be rescued. The Fifteenth Air Force and the Air Crew Rescue Unit devise a means of preparing the required transportation and arrange through the command of Co. 1 to have aircraft prepared and assembled to proceed at appropriate lead times for the rescue. Photographic ground surveys are made to determine the best aircraft approach to the rescue area and the best time for the operation.

1 E G H A T

Force and the Air Crew Rescue Unit. When the plan was established and appropriate personnel in Yugoslavia were notified, the rescue is effected under the operational control of Fifteenth Air Force. The reception, interrogation and return to the United States of personnel thus rescued is performed by Fifteenth Air Force.

The recent evacuation of American airmen from Romania was accomplished as follows:

Notification was received that approximately one thousand (1,000) American airmen were in the Romania area.

It was noted to send personnel to Romania to make arrangements for the return of these airmen. OAS was the only organization authorized to undertake such a task. The OAS responded by furnishing a team of Romanian speaking personnel to make arrangements with communications personnel to maintain contact.

Fifteenth Air Force and the OAS liaison unit arranged for C-47's to land at Craiova, Romania to pick up air crews and return them to Bucharest. Accommodation was provided by Fifteenth AF HQ Co.

During the past three months, approximately one thousand eight hundred eighty-eight (1,888) American airmen have been rescued from the Balkans. To date, the following were rescued in turn, two hundred fifteen (215) were rescued in Italy, four hundred fifty (450) were rescued in France, approximately one thousand one (1,001) are now en route or processed.

A word has just been received that approximately two hundred (200) American airmen are in Bulgaria. Plans are in progress to return these airmen to the United States.

All rescue operations are being covered by news media with narrative and picture stories. It is felt the coverage of air crew rescue work will prove of great news value and propaganda value in the United States.

Very sincerely,

My Dear General Donovan:

Several weeks ago, a need arose for a comprehensive statement in graphic form of the activities of this Command for the purpose of presentation to the Air Staff. Because of the excellent reputation of the Presentation Branch of your office, we requested your assistance. Both the text and accompanying charts have now been completed. The result fully justifies our expectations. It is a fine job and goes far towards the goal of a more complete clarification of the work of the Air Transport Command.

Please let me thank you most sincerely for your cooperation and well as that of your associates. In this connection, I wish to commend particularly the work of Mr. W. T. Barton, Jr., Mr. David C. Murphy, Mrs. Paula Van Hyning, and Mr. Eero Saarinen.

TO: Commanding Officer, 101 Detachment, APO 629

1. In the operation of Air Transport Command so much has happened, so many events have occurred, so many favors have been rendered to our personnel by your Detachment, that we feel it is fitting that some recognition of your valued services be now made in writing, so that you may know they have been appreciated.

2. Personnel of the 101 Detachment, USAF, have consistently been of great assistance to the India China Wing of the Air Transport Command.

3. Invaluable aid has been rendered by the 101 Detachment by furnishing the Intelligence section of the India China Wing with information concerning the enemy. This information has helped the ATC Intelligence Officers in their briefing of flying personnel who fly the hazardous Assam-China route as to the exact position of the enemy lines, and the position of enemy airfields, as well as the numerical strength of enemy aircraft based on forward Burma fields.

4. When reports of unusual radio interference on the Transport run were frequent, reports from 101 Detachment offered solutions, for example:

a. On 9 December 1943, Lt. Cole, Pilot of C-46 #398 while in flight from Sookerating to China overheard a Japanese propaganda program broadcast on a frequency of 1145 KC. An English speaking Japanese dedicated his program to American Army Transport pilots. For a full half hour from 1830 hours to 1900 hours the Japanese spoke about the futility of flying supplies to a beaten China. At this time Lt. Cole was flying in the vicinity of Sonprabum, his radio compass needle swung strongly and pointed due south, thus indicating the presence of a station in the vicinity of Sonprabum or south of it. On 14 December 1943, Intelligence reports of 101 Detachment stated that there were two English speaking Japanese Lieutenant at Myitkyina (approximately 75 miles south of Sonprabum) the same report gave the position of a radio station with a precision accuracy system a short distance north of Myitkyina.

with the natives of Northern Burma, though they were supposedly under control of the Japanese.

When C-46 #634 enroute from Kunming to Chabua rapidly lost altitude and failed to respond to emergency measures the pilot ordered the crew to bail out. Lt. Starling and Cpl. Wyatt bailed out seconds before the transport plane crashed into a mountain side and exploded with the other two members still on board the aircraft. Cpl. Wyatt was badly burned when the plane exploded against the mountain just after he bailed out. Though both men encountered different natives in each case the natives were very friendly. They understood the word American. Kachins hid Wyatt in a cave and treated his burns with native poultices. The enemy was in the immediate vicinity. At one time Cpl. Wyatt looked out of the cave and watched a party of five Japanese soldiers search the home of his benefactor, which was located barely 50 feet away. At this time the natives with knives drawn stood by to protect him should the Japanese discover the cave. Runners carried his messages to the nearest Allied outpost and returned with medical supplies and an air mattress. Risking their own lives the natives smuggled Wyatt out of the cave and carried him to the nearest Allied outpost, Ngumla, where he remained for three weeks recuperating.

Lt. Starling, who landed on a mountain north of the Nganchang Hka River, about ten miles NW of Hpaizaw, was also fed and given shelter by the natives and taken to the Forward Headquarters of 101 Detachment. c. A third incident was the rescue of 2nd Lt. Barton, Cpl. Hammond, and Pvt. Linthicum, all crew members of C-46 #682. These men and the one still missing crew member, 2nd Lt. Beagby, were forced to bail out in the vicinity of Myitkyina after they had become lost and were low on fuel. At this time 16 February 1944, Myitkyina area was strongly entrenched with enemy troops. An agent, a member of 101 Det., found Barton and Hammond, and later Linthicum, and guided the men to safety.

Thus, eight men have been brought from behind Japanese lines, in all three cases a hazardous, self-sacrificing undertaking. These rescues, though the details were withheld for security reasons, had a decided effect in strengthening the confidence of flying personnel, since they gained knowledge that some valiant aid was available, even behind enemy lines.

8. 101 Detachment has unselfishly given the use of their equipment to ATC. On two occasions L-1 type aircraft were loaned to the Search and Rescue Unit, when aircraft of this kind were needed to pick up stranded airmen at some small jungle air-strip. On one occasion badly injured members of aircraft evacuated from a small strip by an Air Warning Station (RA-43). The aircraft crashed at (26°28'N - 95°20'E), near said A.W.S. station. As no aircraft that could land and take off on the small strip was available to the ATC Search and Rescue Unit, assistance of the 101 Detachment was immediately made available, and it was used in evacuating the badly injured fliers as well as the two doctors that participated in their assistance.

9. Upon all occasions the 101 Detachment has given admirable cooperation

101 Detachment sent in a report on 31 December 1943, that a day before station was at position (NK 461b) in the Hukawng Valley; two Japanese radio sets were reported at (NK 1547).

c. With conclusive evidence of the existence of enemy radio stations and their locations furnished by 101 Detachment, ATC Intelligence Officers were able to adequately brief flying personnel, and thus inexperienced pilots were probably saved from misinterpreting radio signals.

5. You supplied escape procedures to be followed by airmen forced down in enemy occupied Northern Burma, and advice concerning jungle survival quoting actual experiences, which proved of great value.

6. Major Bryden, Major Riley, and other officers responsible for ATC Airdrome Defense were given excellent training in jungle warfare tactics by the personnel of 101 Detachment.

7. With hundreds of flights being made daily by Air Transport Command aircraft between Assam, India and China, airmen are sometimes forced down along the route which covers some of the wildest terrain in the world. Conscientious attempts are made to rescue these men and many successful rescues are due to the direct effort of 101 Detachment, USAF.

In addition to actual physical participation in difficult search and rescue missions, 101 Detachment has wisely won true native friends in Northern Burma and has briefed them to help all American personnel with whom they may come in contact. In recalling the past participation by 101 Det. in rescue of our personnel, several incidents are outstanding:

a. On 31 January 1944, C-46 #425, enroute to Chabua, Assam from Kunming, China, ran into bad icing conditions, when the radio equipment failed to operate correctly and the gas supply ran dangerously low. Lt. Michael Krikorian, Lt. Jack W. Miller, Cpl. David P. Ash, and Cpl. Curtis F. Pritchard landed several miles to the rear of the Japanese lines near a Japanese stronghold, Makaw Ga in the Northern Hukawng Valley. The airmen were kept awake for the first several nights by the constant cannonading of artillery and rattle of machine gun fire. Taking a chance the Americans approached a native fishing in a stream, luckily he was in the employ of 101 Det. and he guided the airmen to a larger camp where they met Father Stewart, the Irish Catholic Priest, another member of 101. Father Stewart proceeded to guide Krikorian, Miller and Ash as well as a large number of refugees along a precarious route through Japanese occupied Burma. At one time the party narrowly escaped capture by treacherous Burmese. The India China Wing was informed on 12 February 1944 by 101 Det. that their agents reported Krikorian, Miller, and Ash alive and well and that they would soon arrive at a secret air strip located deep in newly captured territory. On 16 February 1944, the men were flown out of Burma by three B-17 type aircraft.

b. On 25 February 1944 ATC was informed by 101 that Cpl. Curtis Pritchard had been captured while flying down the Lemung Hka River. His Chinese captor, turned traitor and over to the Japanese.

On an occasion two ATC fliers, 2nd Lt. J. P. Starling and 1st Lt. [unclear] [unclear] friendly relations established by 101 to the ATC. Their swiftness of action and their indifference towards all obstacles and danger has been particularly impressive. Our gratitude and appreciation can hardly be expressed in words.

MISSION REPORTCOMMENDATIONS RECEIVED:

Three forms of commendations have been forwarded to Detachment 114 during the period of this report while another in the form of appreciation for information received can also be classified as a tribute to the efforts of the Unit.

The first commendation concerns Warrant Officer, 2d. Robert R. Peers of the Field Photographic Section. The commendation came in the form of a citation from General Kerrill making him a member of Unit 5307 which entitles him to wear the Presidential Citation awarded that Unit.

The appreciation cable comes from Grunnert of the 1st Army read as follows:

"Halfpoint from Grunnert for Peers. 33 Corps daily informed of info on front East of the Chidwin and plan to put agents across. Corps request I inform you of your agents South of Homalin in order that yours and theirs do not conflict. Also if possible they would like a liaison officer from you. Again appreciate the information you have been giving us."

Major General Howard C. Davidson, 10th Air Force, U.S. Army, has suggested it appropriate to send the following commendation regarding this Unit:

Sgt. [unclear]

HEADQUARTERS TWENTIETH AIR FORCE
U.S. ARMY
Office of the Commanding General
A.P.O. 487

1 August 1944

To : Commanding General, Office of Strategic Service.

At JSC: Contribution of Detachment 101, OSS, to USAAF in North Eastern Assam and North Burma.

1. Detachment 101, OSS, has from its very inception given the maximum cooperation and provided extremely effective assistance to the United States Army Forces operating from North Eastern Assam and Northern Burma. Its contribution, commencing in February, 1944, has fallen into the following three principal categories:

a. Target Information

Air operations in Northern Burma were largely devoted to supporting the campaign of the ground forces. OSS furnished a primary intelligence source regarding Japanese troop concentrations, hostile natives, storage areas, movement. Up to 15 March 1944, some 80% of all combat missions were based on the basis of intelligence received from this source. Since 15 March, the percentage of direct air-ground support missions has increased and those based upon OSS intelligence now average about 66% of the total.

b. Damage Assessment

Extremely important information based upon visual observation of aircraft effectiveness and damage assessment was furnished with great regularity. Aside from the value of damage assessment in mission planning, it caused each unit to report to pilots details on the effectiveness of their attacks. This attack was found to be one of our greatest moral boosters.

c. Assistance and Rescue of Pilots and Air Crews

During the period under review, the agencies of the OSS effected the rescue and return of four fighter pilots shot down close to, or across, enemy lines. In addition, they participated in the rescue or rendition of assistance to 181 air crew members of Troop Carrier units and Air Transport Command. In almost every case, the OSS personnel were forced to either in enemy hands or in the jungle-covered, mountainous terrain of Northern Burma. The work done for the sake of human interest and survival is outstanding.

2. OSS have been of inestimable value

Dear Burton:

Lloyd Millegan and I have made a round-up to see how much R & A material has actually been of use here, and we were surprised at the volume of it. It is found in half a dozen publications, sometimes with credit, sometimes without, but it has been well-nigh indispensable in some jobs and useful in all. Practically all of the material that I have brought out has been utilized. The collection that Lloyd got together for me has been a boon to six or eight agencies. Dr. Tosser's material has been extremely useful. Lloyd is making a list of what has been of use that I will send to you.

Ed Mill has done an excellent job on his "Government of the New Philippines." It is being eagerly sought for by numerous staff agencies concerned with the reoccupation. Ed's other current activities are producing rich dividends from our standpoint. I am sorry that direct reciprocity is impossible — you know what the situation is. All I can say is that if there is any satisfaction in making a definite although only partially acknowledged contribution to the war effort in this Theater you are entitled to it.

Things are moving along here, as you know. One feels that the goal is in sight, although still some distance off. Lloyd is indispensible. He is now a staff-sergeant and I hope that he will be wearing shoulder bars in due time.

Best regards to you and Mrs. Fabs -- also my friends in the office.

Sincerely,

(Signed) J. R. Hayden

Three forms of communication were used during the period of this report while action was taken. The information received can also be classified as follows:

The first commendation concerns Mr. E. F. J. Gandy, Jr., of the Field Photographic Section. The General Board has given him a Presidential Citation for his gallantry and skill in combat. He is the first member of the Signal Corps to wear the Presidential Citation. A general order will be issued.

The appreciation cable comes from you to the following:

b. Damage Assessment

Extremely important information based upon damage assessment effectiveness and damage assessment was furnished. This information aside from the value of damage assessment in helping plan future attacks, also provided the opportunity to report to pilots details on the effectiveness of previous attacks. This information was found to be one of our greatest morale boosters.

c. Assistance and Rescue of Pilots and Air Crews

During the period under review, the detachment 101, OSS, assisted in the rescue and return of four fighter pilots shot down in the enemy lines. Dear General Donovan:

It was recently found necessary to make a number of aerial photographs of the tests in connection with an important scientific and military project.

As security and speed were essential, and as the Office of Strategic Services was working closely with us on a similar project, we requested your Field Photographic Branch to supply the cameras.

The pictures are now completed and have been forwarded to us. They were made with a minimum of effort and expense, reflecting the spirit of cooperation that has exemplified the relationship between the Office of Strategic Services with the Army Air Forces.

I wish to express my deep appreciation for the excellent assistance extended by your splendid organization.

Dear Colonel Haskell:

The results obtained in the reports from the operation have been very helpful. Not only was the information useful, but compared with the great volume of reports received the level of accuracy has been extremely high. The manner in which the operation was carried out reflects the obviously excellent training which the intelligence teams had been given.

I am aware that in addition to the ETOUSA teams there are other OSS SI teams attached to First US Army, but I have yet received sufficient reports on their work to enable me to judge their performance.

Dear Whitney:

Thank you for sending me a copy of Major Parish's last report. I agree with you that it is an extremely impressive document. I have passed it along to Secretary Hull with particular reference to the suggestion of Major Parish that a tripartite commission be formed to try to pull together the different factions in this Tagalog conflict. And I certainly feel, with Parish, that we ought to exhaust every effort to that end.

July 3, 1944.

Dear Donovan:

I noted with interest the activities outlined in your recent memoranda. Detachment 101 appears to have been of great assistance to General Merrill's troops in his campaign against the Japanese over difficult terrain. General Stilwell has also remarked on their value. In view of the success of the Simalur Island reconnaissance group in completing its mission, I have brought that report to the attention of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

I appreciate your thoughtfulness in sending me these reports, and I am confident that future activities of OSS will be of comparable help toward the successful completion of the war.

Faithfully yours,

Dear General Donovan:

A small group of us preceded the U. S. Chiefs of Staff to the U. K. to prepare for the recently completed conference of the Combined Chiefs of Staff.

While in London several of us took the opportunity offered by your Colonel Joe Haskell to visit his Headquarters. We visited their operations rooms and were thoroughly read into the past, current and projected activities of that branch of your establishment with respect to the invasion of France.

While I had a general knowledge of OSS activities both in my Air Staff duties and as a member of the Joint and Combined Chiefs of Staff organizations, I had not fully appreciated the great contribution your organization is making in the European fight.

In Assam and Burma in March 1944, I was again surprised and pleased to learn in detail of your very great assistance to the operations of our air units which are supporting General Stilwell and particularly in the recovery of airmen who bail out over the "Hump".

On my return from the Far East I have acquainted General Arnold with your contributions of the value of OSS and want to take this opportunity to thank you.

SUBJECT: Recommendation for presentation of a United States
award to source HOUSTON.TO: Commanding Officer, 2677th Regiment, A.P.H.

Source HOUSTON, formerly known as HO a sub-source of the MADRID chain, has been furnishing information on Southern FRANCE for a period of over twelve months. In the last three months alone this source has turned in the remarkable total of nearly 400 reports from a total of some 40 identified agents and has provided information of operational importance on almost every type of enemy activity and installation.

This source has particularly distinguished itself in the matter of coast defenses and has provided excellent ground reports on German fortifications, especially between PORT VENDRES and SITI and in the environs of TOULON. Detailed mechanical drawings of a great many batteries and Regelbau, which were forwarded with their legend in German, were a particularly noteworthy contribution to our knowledge of enemy defense constructions.

This source has furthermore furnished a quantity of accurate information on German Order of Battle and reports on enemy TOCs (notably a complete breakdown of the TCO Alpenrose, which brought 2 S.S. Panzer Division Das REICH from BORDEAUX to the TOULOUSE area) have been most helpful.

Qualitatively as well as quantitatively, Source HOUSTON has proven one of the best of the purely American contributions to Allied intelligence and the principal organizer of this chain can be said to have done, in an extremely important area and at an extremely important time, an outstanding job.

TO PUR ACTION : AIR CINC MAAP AND SOTMO

URGENT

FROM : GENERAL WILSON

REF ID : F 54769

SIGNED : SACRED

CITE: PHCOS

1. Am very much impressed by the figures for May showing the tonnage of supplies and leaflets delivered to the BALKANS, POLAND and FRANCE, and the large number of Partisans wounded and other personnel evacuated from the BALKANS.
2. I would like you to congratulate the British, American and Polish Squadrons concerned, and the units responsible for the packing of supplies. A truly remarkable performance at a time when such efforts are of the greatest value. Keep it up.

my dear Colonel,

I would like to thank you and through you all the members of your staff for the excellent and invaluable work which they have done during the time I have been at A.F.H.Q.

The quality of work which has been received and maintained sets a very high standard and its results have made an extremely important contribution to our success. Your tasks in this connection are all very important of the highest. As you will know you are

10 July 1945.

Brigadier General William J. Donovan,
Office of Strategic Services
25th and K Streets, Northwest,
Washington, D. C.

Dear General Donovan:

I understand that because of budgetary restrictions on civilian personnel there is a possibility that the work of your Presentation Division may be curtailed in the near future.

As you know, the Army has made extensive use of this Division and it has been of great value to us to have such an organization to which we could turn for prompt and intelligent service. The secret film "The United States Army" made for General Marshall's use was remade into a restricted version for general Army use. It has proved to be one of the most widely used of Army instructional films; one Officer Candidate School uses it three times during each course. Other films have been made for O-S and for the Commanding General, Army Air Forces. We also feel that the films we now produce for the Joint Chiefs of Staff are of great value.

In addition to films, the Army has also received from this Division excellent graphic and editorial services. It prepared the charts and illustrations for the Biennial Report of the Chief of Staff and is at present working for this office a study of Army communications. A large volume of this work of this type has also been done for other branches of the Army.

The work which the Presentation Division of the Office of Strategic Services does for the Army has been of a very high technical excellence. The personnel who have been sent over to the Army have been most cooperative and have spared neither time nor effort in their work for the Army services. There is no other place in the government where work of this quality is done so quickly, secretly, and with such a high degree of efficiency. We hope that there will be no curtailment which would interfere with the continuation of the work which the Presentation Division is doing for the Government and the Army.

Sincerely yours,

JOHN P. MCNAULY
Lieutenant General, U.S. Army,
Chief of Staff.

Mr. Edward G. Rutherford
Division of Special Services
Washington, D. C.

Dear Sir:

We are engaged in a very important confidential project involving the matter of presentation — specifically the preparation of quite a number of graphic illustrations and maps.

The purpose for which the work is intended is such that it must be carried out in the highest degree of secrecy.

I have spoken with Mr. Burton of the Presentation Division and he has told me that this Division is the best equipped in Washington to do the work.

Will you kindly give your official approval to my doing so.

Very truly yours,

Edward Rutherford, Jr.

Dear Colonel Donovan:

I cannot let the holiday season pass without expressing my gratitude to you for the cooperation and assistance you have given us personally in the trying times of the past year.

I regret that after voluntarily coming under the jurisdiction of the Joint Chiefs of Staff your organization has not had smoother sailing. Nevertheless, it has rendered invaluable service, particularly with its contribution to the North African Campaign. I am hopeful that the new Office of Strategic Services' directive will eliminate most, if not all, of your difficulties.

With my thanks to you and to your distinguished associates and my best wishes for the New Year.

Faithfully yours,

Colonel William J. Donovan,

Director, Office of Strategic Services.

ASSISTANT ATTORNEY GENERAL
WASHINGTON

My dear Colonel Donovan:

Your organization has been furnishing my Division with confidential material which has proved to be very useful in all aspects of the work of the Division.

I wish to express to you my deep appreciation for this cooperation.

Very truly yours,

NAVY DEPARTMENT
OFFICE OF THE CHIEF OF NAVAL OPERATIONS
WASHINGTON

Dear Colonel Donovan:

Thank you for your letter of January 14, and the accompanying report from the committee which has been investigating the availability of motion pictures on strategic areas of the world.

I feel, on the basis of the results obtained to date, that the committee's recommendation for the continuance of this project is deserving of serious consideration. Naturally, we are keenly interested in the possibilities of obtaining further material of value from sources such as those which have already been listed, and I am therefore taking the opportunity of circulating the committee's report to various interested offices within the Department for study. The recent speedy collection and showing of films on the Pacific islands which your staff handled for us is a good example of what advantages may result from a comprehensive survey and cataloguing of these sources.

There is, of course, considerable work still to be done in setting up any permanent means for handling or evaluating the vast mass of material involved. In the working out of some ultimate arrangement mutually satisfactory to all parties concerned we shall be glad to be of all possible assistance, and to that end we should appreciate being informed of any further steps which your agency may contemplate after review of the committee's report.

Sincerely yours,

Franklin
T. S. Wilkinson,
Rear Admiral, U.S. Navy,
Director of Naval Intelligence.

JAN 15 1942

My dear Colonel Donovan:

It has been brought to my attention by the Chief of the Bureau of Aeronautics that the photographic personnel of your staff under Commander John Ford, U.S.N.R., have been extremely cooperative with the Photographic Section of the Navy Department. This cooperation has manifested itself in many ways. For instance, this unit has made available to the Photographic Section of the Bureau of Aeronautics various types of equipment, not available elsewhere, urgently needed for the fitting out of Navy photographers sailing on special and extended missions.

I desire to express my appreciation of this fine display of cheerful cooperation. I am sure that such a relationship will continue to exist in our common effort.

Sincerely yours,

Franklin D. Roosevelt

JAN - 2 1942

Colonel William J. Donovan,
Coordinator of Information,
Washington, D.C.

Dear Colonel Donovan:

Thank you for your letter of December 11, 1941, in which you point out the availability to the War Department of the Research and Analysis Branch of your office. The Military Intelligence Division of the General Staff already has had very fruitful contact with the Research and Analysis Branch and is in the process of arranging for the cooperative handling of several new projects. G-2 is especially appreciative of the fresh and independent outlook of your staff of experts.

Needless to say, I appreciate the characteristic spirit underlying your offer as highly as I do the valued services which it makes available.

Sincerely yours,

Henry L. Stimson

Secretary of War
